Caversham Road Charity Car Wash

Firefighters from Red Watch at Caversham Road fire station will be lathering up their sponges for a charity car wash on Saturday 6 October.

All the money raised from the car wash will go to the Fire Service National Benevolent Fund (FSNBF). In addition to the car wash, firefighters will be on hand to provide fire safety advice to visitors.

Firefighter James McGuinness, one of the organisers of the car wash, said: "The FSNBF do fantastic work to help fire service staff and their families cope with the aftermath of injury or illness. We hope lots of people will bring their cars along on Saturday to help us raise as much money for the Fund as possible."

To support the charity and get a spotless car at the same time, come along to Caversham Road fire station between 10am and 4pm. The firefighters of Red Watch and their helpers look forward to seeing you there.

ENDS.

Note to Editors:

You are welcome to send a reporter/photographer along to the car wash between 10am and 4pm on Saturday 6 October.
