HELP FIREFIGHTERS GET LATHERED FOR CHARITY.

Reading firefighters are taking part in a National Car Wash on Saturday (13 September) for The Firefighters Charity (formerly the Fire Service National Benevolent Fund).

Firefighters from Red Watch at Dee Road fire station will join their counterparts at Caversham Road fire station for the event. They will be joining thousands of firefighters across the country who will also be washing cars with a will to raise money for the charity.

Andy Ginn, Watch Manager with Red Watch at Caversham Road fire station, said: "The Firefighters Charity does a great deal to help injured firefighters, both in helping them get back to work as quickly as possible after injury or illness but also in helping their families as well. It is a very valuable resource and we will be washing as many cars as we can on Saturday to raise money for the great work that they do."

Caversham Road fire station is next to the railway bridge and the car wash takes place from 10am until 4pm, giving you plenty of time to do the shopping and get your car washed by a team of willing firefighters!
